BRITISH DO NOT ABANDON HOPE OF CHECKING GERMANS IN SERBIA.

WINTER HALTS FIGHT

Storms and Cold Checks Armies at All Points.—Kaiser at Vienna.—People Leaving Monastir.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 29.—The British public is not inclined to grant the German contention that the Serbian campaign of the central powers has been brought to a successful conclusion. The hope is expressed here that the winter weather will give time for reinforcing the Anglo-French troops until they are strong enough to resume the offensive before the invaders have consolidated their positions in Serbia. Russia also is counted on to play a part in these operations.

In the meantime, the only active military operations seem to be centering around Monastir, the fate of which is obscure. The many contradictory reports on this subject vary from the assertion that the city is still in the hands of the Serbians to the claim that the Bulgarians accompanied by detachments of Austrians and Germans have occupied the city.

Serbian Divides. Further to the north it is reported the Serbian army has divided into two sections, one retreating to Albania and Montenegro. It is not yet apparent whether Austro-German forces are to be sent against the Anglo-French lines, nor those of Saloniki, but at the extreme of the Balkan front the Montenegrins are expecting a heavy attack from the Austrians.

The entente ministers at Athens are said to have received the reply of Greece to the German ultimatum. It is reported to have promised to meet all demands which do not threaten to compromise her neutrality.

Lull in Fighting. An unmistakable lull prevails along the western front. The only apparent evidence of a lively air and sea skirmish off the Belgian coast.

Winter Halts Battles. Paris, Nov. 29.—The effect of the unusually early winter in the Balkans is emphasized in a message from Saloniki to Havas News agency saying all operations along the Anglo-French front have been halted by snow storms and bad weather.

Emperor in Vienna. Berlin, Nov. 29.—Emperor William arrived in Vienna today and paid a personal visit to the Austro-Hungarian monarch, Emperor Francis Joseph, at Schoenbrunn castle.

Leave Monastir. Athens, Nov. 29.—Monastir has been evacuated by the civil population. There is a prospect that the Serbian town will be occupied by Bulgarians as it seems likely according to reports received here that the Serbians will not be able to resist long in the battle for progress between Prelop and Monastir.

The northern Serbian army continues to retire toward the Albanian town of Scutari.

Cannon Captured. Berlin, Nov. 29.—Army headquarters announced today that in the Serbian campaign 502 cannon were captured.

NEGRO CONVICTED OF MURDER OF WIFE OF FORMER WARDEN AT JOLIET PRISON.

HANGING IS PENALTY

Death Penalty Is Decided Upon by Jurors After Long Hours of Deliberation.—Defense May Take Appeal.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Joliet, Nov. 29.—Joseph Campbell, negro convict, today was found guilty of murdering Mrs. Marie Olette Allen, wife of former Warden Allen, the warden's apartment in the state penitentiary.

The verdict fixed the punishment at hanging, and was returned after forty-four hours' deliberation. Campbell, who apparently had expected a disagreement, appeared crushed by the verdict.

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Joseph Campbell, guilty of murder as charged in the indictment, and fix the punishment at hanging," was the verdict read in the court room which was crowded with those eager to hear the outcome of the trial.

Last night when the jury retired it was announced that only one was holding out against his eleven companions.

The deliberations were resumed this morning and a unanimous verdict was returned with a death penalty was reached.

Campbell, who apparently had expected at least a disagreement, appeared crushed by the verdict.

SEIZE WHEAT ON CANADIAN ORDER ALONE

BRITISH GOVERNMENT ENTIRELY UNFAMILIAR WITH COM. CANDEERING OF $18,000,000.

NO FLURRY IN MARKET

Prices on Chicago Exchange Advance Slightly but No Excitement Is Noted.—Winnipeg Trading Held up for Present.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 29.—The official press bureau made the following statement today:

"With reference to announcement from Ottawa on November 28 that the Canadian government had commandeered 16,000,000 bushels of wheat at request of British government, the board of agriculturists states the government has made no such request and at present they have no information on the subject."

Situation in Chicago. Chicago, Nov. 29.—Action by the Canadian government in commandeering approximately twenty million bushels of wheat is expected to result in only a brief and slight fluctuation in the American market, according to dealers in Chicago.

The market probably will not be greatly affected, they declare, as none of the important dealers in Chicago, the center of the nation's wheat market, was involved, or in any way affected by the action.

George R. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, and Joseph Rosenbaum, head of the J. Rosenbaum Grain company, two of the largest exporters here, are among those who do not look for any quick changes in prices.

Mr. Marcy predicted that the Canadian government's action would release greater quantities of wheat for immediate delivery, thereby bringing about a drop, if anything, in prices.

C. S. Canby, president of the Chicago board of trade, would make no prediction further than to say the demand for wheat in the United States would be affected in proportion to the extent of Canadian seizures, and according to the disposition of the government to release or retain the grain.

The action of the Canadian government is summed up in an official statement issued, which in part says:

"The effect of the government purchases in the open market, such as were made by the different countries a year ago, is well known to the public. The market rises abnormally adding to the profit of the dealers and speculators who have purchased the grain which the government requires the advance in large amount of grain in store, because the loss of the purchasing government and the profit of the producers, but the owner of the stored grain.

"To secure the desired end this year, the government determined to purchase all wheat in the United States and three northern wheat in store at head of the lakes and eastward."

Prices Advance Slightly. There was no tendency toward a flurry on the market today as a result of the Canadian government's action. Prices for wheat futures advanced slightly, the maximum rise being two cents for December May wheat advanced about 1 1/2 cents. The market was fairly strong at the close of trading. Following is the record of prices:

Wheat—Dec. Opening 1.05; high 1.06; low 1.04; closing 1.05 1/2. May Opening 1.07; high 1.08; low 1.06 1/2; closing 1.08 1/2.

Winnipeg Exchange Closed. Winnipeg, Nov. 29.—Suspension of wheat trading in Winnipeg grain exchange as result of the government order commandeering twelve to fifteen million bushels of wheat, probably will be of short duration. A meeting of the grain exchange council will be held late today for discussion of the necessity of further suspension.

Rich Women Back. Jailed 'Suff' Orator. Members of New York Four Hundred to Secure Counsel for Woman Held for Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 29.—The selection of a jury before which Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, a labor leader, will be tried for the second time on charges of having "incited to personal violence" in speeches she made during the strike of the Paterson silk mill workers in 1912, was again today before Judge Klenard. Miss Flynn was tried here for the first time in 1913, when the jury disagreed. No effort was made to bring the young woman to trial again until she was again in Paterson last summer and attempted to address a meeting. Paterson police then told Miss Flynn she would not be allowed to speak.

Defense committee including Mrs. O. H. Belmont, Mrs. J. Borden Hariman and numerous other women prominent socially or in suffrage work, was formed to secure counsel for Miss Flynn.

LA FOLLETTE TO TRY TO REVIVE MACHINE

SENATOR OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH WEEK OF SPEAKING, STARTING TONIGHT.

TO HEAD DELEGATION?

Despite Vote for Democratic Tariff Wilson Administration to be Attacked.—Will go After Philipp.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Haddon, Wis., Nov. 29.—Senator La Follette expects, it was said by his close friends on Saturday, to make two substantially different speeches in his political campaign, speaking trip through the southwestern part of the state this week, in which he hopes to rejuvenate his old machine. He will make the first at Richland Center tonight and the second at Monroe Wednesday night. The first speech will repeat at Dodgeville Tuesday night and at Argyle Wednesday afternoon. The Monroe speech he will give at Lancaster Thursday night, at Platteville Friday night and at Beloit Saturday night.

Goals Over Old Ground. La Follette expects to be warmly received on his trip, as it will carry him through territory which he has frequently campaigned and which he represented in the lower house of congress several terms.

The speeches, it is understood, will be a plea for the election of a progressive or radical delegation next April to the republican national convention and a critical arraignment of the Philipp administration.

In giving his reasons for urging the election of a progressive or radical delegation to the national convention, La Follette will discuss national questions, attacking both the conservative element of the republican party and the Wilson administration. He will charge that the conservative element of the republican party is planning to dominate the next republican national convention and dictate the nominees for president and vice president.

La Follette will, it is understood, criticize the Wilson administration for its failure to properly solve both national and international questions that have confronted it.

To "Explain" Democratic Vote. Realizing that he will have to explain the vote for the democratic tariff bill, La Follette will, it is expected, advance his old excuse that he considered it the best tariff act that could be secured from a democratic administration and the only solution of the tariff problem is to leave it to a nonpartisan expert commission to be worked out on a scientific basis.

Senator La Follette wants to lead the Wisconsin delegation to the republican national convention. He will attack the plan already adopted of holding a state conference of republicans to propose a list of prominent members of the party for election as delegates to the national convention as being contrary to the spirit of the primary election law and as giving the political enemies control of the delegation.

He will, it is said, charge the advocates of the state conference plan with being reactionary and "in the control of the party by special interests" and "private privilege."

Spends Months on Preparation. The senator will attack the Philipp administration, it is said, for alleged failure to carry out the platform of the republican party and lack of sympathy with the radical political reforms secured by the La Follette faction during the past decade. He will charge the Philipp administration with securing lower taxes and a more efficient administration of the state government, and will charge the governor with playing politics and neglecting the duties of his office.

La Follette has had a force of clerks investigating the different departments in the state capital in an effort to dig up material for the trip. He expects to leave for New York next week. La Follette will not, it is understood, announce his slate of candidates for state offices until the convention for control of the delegation to the national convention has been decided.

Considers Campaign Crisis. La Follette has been working four months for the campaign which he is about to open. He regards it as one of the biggest and most important contests in his political career.

After his brief speaking next Saturday night La Follette will return to Madison and prepare to go to Washington to present Senator Paul O. Hastings at the bar of the senate. La Follette expects to leave for Washington today.

That he considered the situation of sufficient importance to bring to the attention of commerce, however, had not generally been realized.

Return to New York. President Wilson returned from New York early today and immediately went to the White House to work on his next annual address to congress. On his return from New York he was accompanied by Senator Hughes of New Jersey, Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Cary T. Hays, his physician. Mrs. Norman Galt remained in New York.

The president has the main outlines of his address to congress finished and expects to get it in final shape for public printer today. He took the address with him to New York and discussed it with Colonel E. M. House, his personal friend and political advisor.

Discussed Peace Outlook. While in New York the president is understood to have discussed the outlook for peace in Europe with Colonel House, who went abroad several months ago to investigate the situation in Europe. The president is not believed, however, that the president will initiate a conference of neutral nations to attempt to end the war, as suggested that week by a delegation of peace advocates.

DEMOCRATS PERFECT ORGANIZATION FOR CONGRESS SESSION

Senators in Caucus and Members of Ways and Means Committee Hold Session.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Nov. 29.—With senate democrats in caucus and democrats of the house ways and means committee in session today, work of organizing the sixty-fourth congress, which convenes a week hence, got under way. Practically all majority members of both branches of congress had arrived here today. The senate democrats, who awaited reconsideration of the senate caucus was a revision of the rule to provide for closure of debate.

Senator Kern of Indiana was re-elected chairman of the democratic senate caucus and floor leader, by unanimous vote today at a conference of senate democrats. Senator Bland of Nevada was elected secretary of the conference to succeed Senator Saulsbury of Delaware, who wished to relinquish the office. Senator Kern was authorized to name a new steering committee of eight members to be approved by the conference on Wednesday.

President Wilson's address to congress next week not only will treat upon greater preparedness for national defense, but will call attention to commerce of explosions and fire in American industrial plants.

The president intends to recommend that the Sherman law be amended to include severe penalties for such restraints of trade. Any division in the ranks of American citizens whose sympathies with belligerents may have led to excesses will be emphatically condemned as un-American by the president. In several recent speeches, the president has called upon Americans to stand united. That he considered the situation of sufficient importance to bring to the attention of commerce, however, had not generally been realized.

CAPT. BOY-ED CONSIDERED AS PLOTTER?

COUNSEL FOR HAMBURG LINE OFFICIALS ASKS QUESTION OF GOVERNMENT'S ATTORNEYS.

NO NAMES BROUGHT IN

Government Merely Sought to Bring Out Facts of Case With Reference to Alleged Aid to German Cruisers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Nov. 28.—The government was called on today to state whether it considered Captain Karl Boy-Ed, German naval attaché in the light of a conspirator with the Hamburg-American line officials in dispatching a relief ship to German cruisers at sea early in the war.

The demand was made and repeated by William Rand, Jr., counsel for Dr. Karl Buezn and his three subordinate officials in the court of their trial for alleged conspiracy in the United States district court here.

No Position Taken. "The government has taken no position in the matter," replied Roger B. Wood, assistant United States district attorney, in charge of the prosecution, when pressed by Mr. Rand for the third time for a reply. "We have brought nobody's name into this case unless it had to be brought in. All that the government has wanted to do is to submit all the facts in the case bearing on this indictment. It is not the government's duty to bring anybody's name in that did not have to be brought in."

What the government contends with relation to Captain Boy-Ed's connection in the case, of a point which Mr. Rand was insistent should be cleared up.

Counsel Asks Question. "Is Captain Boy-Ed one of the conspirators in this case, according to the government's contention?" he was asked. There was no reply, and after a short pause, Mr. Rand addressed the court repeating the question. "I dislike to ask Mr. Wood that question again," Mr. Rand went on.

"Because apparently he is very touchy. But I will ask your honor to ask it of Mr. Wood. I think we ought to know. I feel that the court should put the question."

Court Disregards Request. Judge Howe was silent for several moments. Then he said that he was not to ask the question of Mr. Wood, but to rule that Christian Bentson, first mate on the Marina Quessa, might testify concerning the movement of the vessel.

"I think that the government has shown a connection between Marina Quessa and the defendants," the court said. "I shall allow the witness to testify subject to later ruling on this point."

BAD FREIGHT WRECK BLOCKADES TRAFFIC

Thirty Cars Piled Up on Pennsylvania Line Near Philadelphia, Causing Serious Delays.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—One of the most serious freight wrecks that has occurred in a long time on the New York and Pennsylvania railroad, happened at Cornwells, eighteen miles east of Philadelphia, at 11:30 last night, and traffic was blocked many hours.

President Wilson returned to Washington from New York was one of the many that had to be diverted over other routes. No one was hurt, but thirty freight cars were damaged and piled up over the four tracks of the road. The accident was due to failure of the engineer of one of the two freight trains involved to obey signals. Both freight trains were going east at different tracks and crossed over at the switch and crashed into the other.

Trains from the west were diverted to the Trenton cutoff, twenty-five miles west of Philadelphia, or were sent over to New Jersey by way of the Delaware river bridge here, used for seashore traffic.

At such a time, traffic was still blocked at Cornwells, and Pennsylvania railroad tickets were honored by the Reading railroad at Philadelphia and by the Trenton cutoff. A President Wilson's train was diverted at Trenton, N. J., on the Trenton division, and run down the New Jersey side of the Delaware river to the Delaware river bridge, where it crossed into Philadelphia and resumed its journey along the regular route.

ONE CHANCE TO 'SAVE'

FOOT OF BRAKEMAN

Surgeons at Darlington Have Hope
Amputation on Louis McHeon
Will Not Be Necessary.Reports received today from Darlington where Louis McHeon, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul brakeman, was taken following an accident at Gratiot on Tuesday, are that Mc-Heon is getting along nicely and that he spent a very comfortable night
last week.Attending surgeons hold but a single hope that they may save his foot from amputation. McHeon slipped and fell, his left foot alighting on the rail and being crushed, one wheel passing entirely over the member, back and below the ankle at the heel.Plans were first formulated to bring him to Janesville, where it was thought that better medical care and attention could be secured, but has now been decided to keep him at Darlington for the present.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

28-11-15.
To the Editor Janesville Gazette.
With your kindly allow me space in your paper to protest against the publication of John Gollner's letter to G. S. Parker under the heading of Facts and purporting to be written by a neutral. This may deceive some, but to the man of ordinary intelligence it is nothing less than an insult.Gollner's letter shows a bitterness toward England which is sufficient to warp a stronger mind than his and turns his facts into fallacies.As one who has lost many friends and relatives in this war, I object to the statement that England employs savages to fight for her troops. As probably one of many who looked upon England as a small country, forgetting that the British Empire was the greatest empire the world has ever known.The excesses which our troops from the four corners of the earth,
those from India, because of their color and creed are dubbed 'savages.' They certainly have not been guilty of any of the excesses which our troops against the nation claiming the greatest culture, and are in every and any respect the equal of the Turk.England has certainly no need to be Portugal for handling her troops, but under the terms of the alliance between the two countries Portugal can be called upon any time to provide 100,000 troops, but fortunately they are not needed; but the point I take the strongest objection to and denounce as an absolute lie is Gollner's statement that the colonial troops are put in front while the purely English troops fight for her troops.According to the official returns, issued in the spring of every hundred men serving with the colors 74.3 were English, 10.8 Scotch, 10.8 Irish and 2 Welsh. The figures today would show
a much higher percentage of English, who are admitted even by their foe
to be the finest infantry in the world.The Imperial Guard at Ypres are better judges of their prowess than John Gollner, who rushed for the cellar at the sight of a hostile aeroplane.The English are naturally proud of their colonial troops, but it should not be forgotten that many of the Canadian and Australian troops are of English birth, and every man fighting under the British flag is a volunteer.John Gollner's letter is a lie, and the death of Miss Cavell, the German nurse who has probably not permitted him to read Brand Whitlock's report. There are many charges which could be brought against the powers, but it serves no useful object and only engenders bad feelings which we as Americans should strive to avoid and which we will have to live with if we are to become a united nation.I have no wish to be a hyphenated American. I renounced my king and country to become an American citizen, but I have still enough respect for the old country to refuse to statements as are contained in John Gollner's letter and purporting to be facts.Yours sincerely,

F. H. YOST'S SELECTIONS FOR ALL-AMERICAN TEAM

Football fans will be interested in the make-up of the all-

American team selected by F. H. Yost, coach at the University of Michigan. An announcement of Yost's team and an article by the famous mentor, himself, telling his reasons for picking the various players, will appear in the Gazette of Wednesday evening. There will also be a cut of four of the champion players. Yost is peculiarly quick to make an announcement for an all-American team

since his eleven has played

both eastern and western teams.

He is one of the best posted football critics in the country.

In addition to his all-American selections, the Gazette will publish three other football articles written by Yost.

KNOCKOUT PUNCH ON WESTERN LINE STILL TO BE MADE

Armies Locked in Struggle and Cliché Seem to Prevent Final Turn to Victory.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

With the French Army in Champagne, Nov. 29.—Can either the French or German armies now face to face along the western front, produce a knockout punch? Doubtless the punch is possible, but the more

one sees of the present fighting line

the more is impressed with the extreme difficulties of the thing.

Not an officer or man here but is firmly convinced that sooner or later

the enemy will smash through the German lines to reach the coast beyond.

The Champagne drive proves that the blow must be one of the mightiest

wallops that ever set the globe a-tremble. Some months ago a general remarking was made.

"We can break through any time,

but the effort would be costly and we must make sure it will be worth the price." The French have just broken the enemy's front, and being German reserve lines. The advance was a prodigy of valor after a miracle of preparation; and the gain, 15 miles long and 3 miles deep was worth the price. The task is not hopeless.

The Battle of Champagne was the first fought with perfected trenches—

a condition peculiar to this war. Until last November fighting was in the open, but when the armies dug themselves in, it was grenade throwing,

trench-mortar bomb-firing and an occasional hand-to-hand charge.

The Champagne battle was the first great general battle after both sides

had turned their positions into veritable fortifications. It will go down in history as one of the world's most important events. It is estimated that more than a million men were engaged and the Germans lost more than three times what Napoleon lost at Waterloo.

Such a heroic battle, however, is necessary for either side's considerable advance, and Germany's task of defending a Russian front, a Balkan front,

and a western front, makes it impossible for Germany to push the punch necessary for victory, the French say.

The way from Paris to the fighting front is a series of perfected trenches.

To advance, the Germans must storm these trenches one by one. Their capture would be possible only after a cyclonic downpour of explosives. It is said so many shells would be necessary that Germany's output would be taxed to supply this one front.

For three days I have walked the Champagne battlefield, inspecting what were the German positions. Ger-man's preparations were marvelous.

Trenches criss-crossed the plains, machine-guns were everywhere, steel turrets with rapid-fire cannon reinforced already strong positions. Behind the main line of trenches, a second line of trenches was being

SWITZERLAND HAS TROUBLE SITTING ON NEUTRAL FENCE

Is "Good Samaritan" of Europe Relieving War Neighbor's Suffering—Receipts Great.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 29.—Switzerland, surrounded on all sides by warring nations, obliged herself to remain neutral, but she is scarcely able to sit anybody while suffering a great deal of harm herself, finds only one way that pleases everyone—that of the "Good Samaritan of Europe," relieving the sufferings of her neighbors

are causing to each other's subjects.

The burden of maintaining communications between the warring nations of war and their kindred fell upon the Red Cross committee of Geneva.

Switzerland also rushed to the frontiers loaded with refreshments and soldiers returning home through her neutral territory. What this has cost

Switzerland in money cannot be reckoned. What it has lost commercially and financially in other directions it is difficult to estimate beyond the millions that her mobilization has cost her.

The Swiss people are particularly sensitive over the suspicions they have been exposed to by reason of their geographical position, the various character of the population and the resulting division of sympathies in the conflict. There has undoubtedly been some contraband, but no more than there would have been in any other country where private gain is tempted by high paid risks. A great deal of money has been prevented from leaving the country by reason of the reason of commercial treaties.

Switzerland was unable to prevent the transportation across her territory of enormous quantities of merchandise that Italy sent to Germany in exchange for coal before she declared war on Austria. The inspection of that merchandise to detect contraband

of war was a formidable task.

Regarding suspicions in France

that importations from that country into Switzerland went to supply the Germans the Swiss people point out that the same importations for the first quarter of 1915 were 40 million less than for the first quarter of 1914.

At the same time they complain of the stoppage by France of goods from Switzerland. The Atlantic cable was penable for the provisioning of the population and for the operation of their industries. These complaints were naturally more bitter from the fact that Switzerland was neutral.

From the best of the war

Switzerland has been obliged to appeal constantly to the goodwill of both groups of powers at war while being the name of the Swiss people from many different directions by many conflicting interests. All this is what made possible, even necessary

the idea of an impartial treaty which beats the name of the Swiss people of Economic Supervision. It is

LONDON NEWSPAPER THIS MONTH OBSERVES 250TH ANNIVERSARY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 29.—The London Gazette, the most austere and formal of all English newspapers, is this month

celebrating its 250th birthday.

The vast majority of Londoners have never seen the Gazette and many live in ignorance even of the existence of such a newspaper. For it is the official organ of the British government and its circulation is limited to official circles or to those who are willing to pay the fixed price of twenty-five cents per copy.

In the ordinary course of events,

the Gazette is published every Tuesday and Friday, but when occasion arises special supplements are issued at eight cents each. Since the outbreak of the war several of these supplements have been issued each week and there has occasionally been a demand from relatives of those mentioned in the official dispatches to demand the reprinting of a particular edition.

"Gazette" is an expression frequently used in England to designate

some official statement or action of the government. The Gazette is in the government's newspaper. The many cases prescribed by parliamentary enactment as the appropriate medium for announcements of official acts and appointments. Though the man in the street rarely sees the Gazette, he frequently reads its announcements indirectly, for most of its valuable official information is immediately reproduced in the daily newspapers.

The earliest issue of the official journal goes back to the reign of Charles I, but there is a little diversity of opinion as to the exact date. Some authorities give it as November 7, 1665, while others favor November 14
of the same year.

There are similar publications for Scotland and Ireland, published respectively in Edinburgh and Dublin.
The former was first issued in 1690,
and the latter in 1711.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS. In sending change of address for your paper, be sure to give the present address as well as the new one. This will insure better and quicker service.

THE PUBLICATION OF OBITUARY NOTICES. Resolutions, Cards of Thanks, etc., can be made at the per cent of the cost of the notice. Church and lodge announcements free on insertion except those announcing an event for which a charge is to be made. These and subsequent insertions of any notice are made at the price.

THE GAZETTE DOES NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT false or fraudulent advertising or other advertising of an objectionable nature. Every advertiser in the Gazette is printed with full confidence in the character and reliability of the advertiser. The truth of the representations made by the advertiser is the responsibility of the advertiser. The Gazette will not accept a favor if the advertiser is not a resident of Janesville or Rock County.

CHURCH ADVERTISING. The Rev. T. W. Barker of Newport, Ky., recently declared before the Methodist Ministers' association in Cincinnati that he must pay the cost of advertising a relatively small amount of money in advertising religion than a large amount on a self-advertised individual.

"It is humiliating to me," he said, "to see two hundred ministers in Greater Cincinnati stand with hands down and wait for Billy Sunday to come along and persuade God to take a hand in saving the city. Take $50,000 and spend it in your daily papers in three weeks advertising and you will have a greater revival than Billy Sunday ever knew. Where we preach to 10,000 the press reaches 500,000. Give me the exclusive control of the dailies in Cincinnati for three weeks, and I will show you the greatest revival not only in the history of the city but in the history of the American people. I dare the editors to give me a chance to prove the statement."

"You will pay Billy Sunday $40,000. You take $6,000 and spend it in your papers in the next three weeks in advertising, organize a campaign and you will have in ten days a greater revival than Billy Sunday ever saw."

The Gazette may be accused of selfish motives in calling the attention of the churches to this very sensible article on church advertising, but the paper is in position to help them, and by concerted action there is every reason to believe that the church attendance in Janesville could be doubled within six months.

Many physicians are starving because of a foolish code of ethics, but there is no ethical bar against church advertising and wherever it has been intelligently tried the best of results have followed. A Saturday half page devoted to church publicity will reach practically every family in the city limits. For the Gazette reaches thirty-one hundred of the thirty-two hundred homes.

The average Janesville pastor talks to an audience of four or five hundred every Sunday morning, while the Gazette talks to 40,000 people every evening. Many of these people can be induced to attend church and there is no easier way to induce them than through the columns of the family newspaper.

REAL PREPAREDNESS. Real preparedness comes when you are prepared. Now that the Thanksgiving holidays are over, the Christmas season approaches. The slogan "shop early," has been drummed into the ears of the American public for so many years that it is more than a family word. Janesville merchants are preparing for the coming shopping season, as are merchants everywhere in the country, with the assurance that this will be a holiday season that will come with a rush when it does come. Just at the present time the talk of the whole nation is for preparedness for war. Congress is to be asked to expend millions to bring this state of affairs about. Meanwhile the wise shoppers are taking time by the forelock and preparing for Christmas. But in all this Christmas preparation do not forget that there will be many who may not have all the advantages that a purse of unlimited depth permits and set aside some part of your Christmas giving for the material aid of those who are less fortunate than your own family or immediate friends.

JASON FORD. The Chicago Herald has nicknamed the peace expedition that is soon to sail from this country for Europe headed by the great Automobile Ford, as the Eironautics. It predicts that the crew of this famous ship will be composed of many famous heroes and heroines and that they may sow the dragons' teeth when they arrive on foreign shores. The leader that characterizes the expedition is Jason Ford, the Greek Argonaut in their quest for the Golden Fleece in the days of mythology centuries ago. All joking aside, Mr. Ford's efforts are worth considering although unfortunately it is feared they will not bring forth the desired results. The men and women who will compose his famous party are all earnest workers in the cause of peace, but they will meet just as strong advocates of the mailed fist and the Gods of war when they arrive on foreign shores. Indeed, it is to the fact that the peace of the warring powers desire peace no matter how much the common folk of the warring countries may long for it. "Jason" Ford is bound to find much disappointment awaiting him, but the public wishes him success.

On arrival at Washington the congressmen will show their conscientious purpose to perform their duties by immediately rushing around to the departments to get jobs for their constituents.

The women of France have raised bumper crops while the men were fighting. The farmers' wives of this country could also raise very considerable harvests while the farmers are making their frequent trips to town.

If you see your women friends doing a lot of gymnastic exercises, it may not be that they are training themselves for housework, but merely that they wish to make a better appearance in an evening gown.

Reports from the big cities are to the effect that the merchants expect a big holiday gift trade, and in response to public demand are loading up with lots of things that the recipients won't know what to do with.

Strange to say, although Yale was so terribly overwhelmed at football, neither the president of the college nor the faculty have as yet been asked to hand in their resignations.

After growing about the cost of Thanksgiving turkey, many people ordered the market to get out a team and make a special trip to their house to deliver the bird.

New York City is going to make tramps work for their food this winter in spite of the constitutional provisions against cruel and unusual punishments.

Owing to the growing reluctance of the public to come in and lose any more money, Wall street seems less optimistic about the business future.

Many people think it strange that the merchants don't encourage the "Buy it early" movement by extending their credit until after January 1.

Basketball is considered a game developing great quickness of thought, and it has to be or you couldn't slug the other fellows while the referee isn't looking.

The Books of Fables published every year for the holiday gift trade would not seem complete without including the official bulletins of the warring powers.

Some people are now economizing for Christmas by adjourning payment of the grocers' bill until after New Years.

Although Utah gives condemned murderers the choice whether they shall be hanged or shot, there are probably some funny people who are disappointed because they can't be electrocuted.

Having been treated to the luxury of cold storage turkey for Thanksgiving, the boarders must now be content for several days with salt fish.

The friends of the allies can't keep hollering indefinitely on the strength of the big things that are going to be done soon.

A large number of persons are now recovering from the case of indigestion caused by the unregulated exercise of the thankful spirit.

SNAP SHOTS. Rhubarb pie probably owes its standing largely to the fact that it is in season at a time when there is no competition in that line.

In extending sympathy do not overlook the stepfather.

A woman will endure privation, hardship and physical suffering without a murmur. But she often cries out in pain when compelled to give her property in to the assessor.

There are various ways of wasting time. Eph Wiley says looking for a white rhinoceros is one of them.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

Do You Know This Man? He tears around the house and howls about the cost of food and growsl. Concerning the money he has spent for heat and light and for the rent. The family meal has cost two bits and this has thrown him into fits. He says they'll surely drive him to the poorhouse, that is what they'll do. He catches up and grins. About the time he gave her once. And says she must think he's a mint; His language isn't fit to print. But when he dines downtown, this Turns out to be a whole-souled prince. He takes a friend and eats his fill. Insists on paying all the bill. The most expensive luxuries. He orders for his mate to please. There's nothing that's too rich or rare For him upon the bill of fare. Cigars cannot be made too fine; He buys four dollars' worth of wine. A prince and right "good look" he, Excepting when he ought to be.

Our Dramatic Department. It is rumored that some man is trying to dramatize Mark Twain's "Life of the Bee," and our opinion is that whoever does it will be stung. The dressmakers have just come out with the latest fashions. Lillian Russell, and she will soon take the road at the head of her own variety troupe.

Strange Things About Notables. President Wilson rarely wears a full beard while attending social functions. John D. Rockefeller does not devote much of his time to draw poker. Woodrow Roosevelt does not wear a wrist watch.

William H. Taft does not take much interest in the Castle House dances. Dr. Eliot does not often wear a red sweater. J. P. Morgan does not wear a three-carat diamond ring or a horseshoe pin.

Going On Right Now. They laid him out on the back and tied him to the railroad track. And told him it was most time for the train. He solved his problem in deepest grief, because it was his fond belief that he'd never see his fond mamma again.

They rescued him in nick of time and tried to cover up the crime. They hid him in a well and let him soak. They took him in an hour or two and pounded him all black and blue. And hanged him from a bridge just for a joke.

And then in rancor coarse and rude, they took his clothes and left him nude. And made him run for home with speed. But caught him e'er he had gone far and daubed him up with luke-warm tar.

And others until he was a lurid sight. They made him climb a dozen trees and shiver in the autumn breeze. And laid him on a rail for half an hour. He barked his shins and skinned his nose and lost nine pounds of adipose.

While climbing up the bellrope in the tower. They made him dance on red hot bricks and sing a song and do some tricks. And on a greased pole sixty-five feet tall.

The reason is not hard to see. The secret of it was that he was joining a fraternity, that's all.

A Fiendish Blow. Bill Sulzer calls Colonel Roosevelt "a mere presidential wraith." If the colonel wore a wrist watch that blow would have broken the crystal.

Of a Certain Kind. "There's Little Change Along the Front." This headline doth appear. And we add to the headline stunt; "There's Little Change Right Here."

The Daily Novelette. Superstitious Sidney.

Oh, oh! It seems he didn't have— Exactly what he thought he did; Of course that devil would explain, The actions of our hero, Sid.

In the middle of the night, in the middle of a nightmare, on the middle of his back, in the middle of his bed, Superstitious Sidney awoke in the middle of a shiver.

"Can I have been mistaken?" he asked himself, trembling in every limb and with one arm outstretched. And he listened intently, fearfully. The sound that had frightened him came again.

Causing only long enough to change his nightgown for pajamas, he rushed through the dark streets, shrieking, "I'm haunted! I'm haunted! I'm haunted!"

And only, the dreadful sound seemed to follow him, even to Dr. Smither's office, where Sidney flung himself against the door bell, yelling "I'm! I'm! I'm! I'm!"

Dr. Smither, in a nightgown and a hurry opened the door. "I'm haunted! Listen," cried Sidney. And once more the weird sound burst on the night air.

"You poor fish!" cried the doctor. "You've got the cramp!"

DESCRIPTS LAST CHARGE OF BRAVE AUSTRALIANS. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

The Dardanelles, Nov. 29.—Some fresh details regarding the famous charge of the Australian Light Horse Brigade, against the Turks on the Nek, in the best part of three Australian regiments participated in it, only one man returned alive, having just reached British headquarters through a Turkish prisoner.

The prisoner was able to state positively, what many Australians witnessed the charge had suspected, that during the attack the Turks lost not a single man.

They received a special complimentary order from their government and several medals and a good many promotions.

The Australians' charge followed a long period of bombardment. As soon as the bombardment stopped, said the Turkish prisoner, "The English (the Turks call all the British troops, whether home or colonial) by the name English, leaped over their parapet and charged down upon us. They came on very well. As soon as they appeared, every rifle in the line opened upon them direct across the neck, and a machine gun swept the cross fire from the right swept them over the face of the earth. Three of them managed to reach our trench and fell dead over the parapet into the bottom of it."

As for the men of the Light Horse Brigade—after three months in the trenches, with many of them sick and some of them weak, with every comfort and man at an appointed place, the instant the word was given, they leaped from their trench and rushed on to death—the first line may not have known it was death—the third line must have known it. And they died.

MORE MEN TEACHERS NEEDED IN SCHOOLS

Pedagogues Well Enough Paid so They Can Own a Small Farm, Education Commissioner's Ideal.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—"We need more men teachers for our children; men teachers well enough paid to own a small farm, for this would not only stabilize the profession but also give the teachers an incentive to become actively identified with every interest of his community, which is imperative."

In all fairness I must say that the worst educational far all of the east. There are fewer children there but proportionately speaking the west does not stint in taxation for educational purposes. The children there have the benefit of every educational advantage that money and science can produce.

For example, Oregon leads all states of the Union in giving school credit work for time in the home. Oregon therefore is developing thrift and vocation to an unusual extent in the pupils of the public schools.

The State of Washington leads the country in the number of homes for teachers, and as a consequence is giving stability to the profession of home school teaching. It is to these homes school farms of from five to fifty acres could be added, men would be glad in many instances, to make teaching their business.

We must have teachers who will become identified with the interests of the community. Washington, one of the western states, particularly Minnesota, are solving these problems by their teacher-cottage systems in rural communities.

"California pays its teachers better than any other state. The average salary of public school teachers, including rural and urban, throughout the state is $950." California pays an average of $950.

CAN SUN EXPLODE IS THE QUESTION? French Savant Explains Modern Theory of Its Accumulating Heat.

Al. Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, has revived the idea of a solar system suddenly converted into a popular astronomer, but is founded on some new suppositions concerning the life and constitution of the sun.

Several new stars have been born within the last generation, notably the new star in Perseus in 1901; and the collision theory was applied to them. But they do not respond.

There has been nothing about their subsequent appearance, which they believe that a collision ever took place. Moreover, all the known spiral nebulae of the sky are far, far faster in the conversion of gas into stars.

The new star in Perseus was such an explosion. It was an explosion of which we witnessed the first stage. It was a comparatively small affair, but the flying atoms, or bits of atoms, went flying out from the center, visible to our eyes for weeks. They are flying invisibly still.

Nobody knows why, or in what circumstances, such an explosion takes place. But any star, any sun, may be subject to such an explosion. We can no longer regard the sun as a steady-going middle-aged orb which is settling and shrinking into an old age when it will be lifeless. It is a variable star, and its heat and light wax and wane. Dr. C. G. Abbott has shown that it is now subject to regular pulsations, and that it has variable stars, which, though of the same type, wax and wane much more. There is no explanation of this regular pulsation or what are called the Cepheid variables. But the reason to suppose that the regularity of pulsation will remain unbroken. It may be suddenly altered by a violent release of accumulated energy, as in the case of the nova, which has been breathing steadily for years or centuries, suddenly bursts. In some of the older stars their old age is interrupted by these furious outbreaks.

But the most alarming factor with regard to the stability of the sun is the existence in it of radium and of other elements which are disintegrating, and in their disintegration give out tremendous quantities of heat. If we grant that in the sun there is in amount of radium proportionate to that found in the surface rocks of the earth, we are bound to come to the conclusion reached by the other French astronomer, M. Puleux, that the sun is not growing colder, but hotter. It is not shrinking; it is dilating. We speak of the sun's temperature as 5,000 degrees Centigrade. But its interior may have temperatures a thousand times that. These temperatures and actions are accumulating. There may come a day—and there is reason for believing that in the solar system's past there was such a day—when these accumulating forces will blow the sun apart in a spasm of repulsion, carrying the earth and the other planets away in the explosion.

FEDERAL LABORATORY AT MADISON TESTING STRENGTH OF BOXES

Wood Testing Station Conducting Experiments on Different Types of Box Containers.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Madison, Wis., Nov. 29.—Unusual interest is being attached to a series of experiments testing the strength of boxes, which are now being conducted by the federal government at the Forest Products laboratory here. A committee of the American society for testing of materials is now here for the purpose of inspecting a machine recently designed by the laboratory and to formulate specifications for a standard method of testing boxes. Those present are: C. Fred Yagge, vice-president of the Chicago Mill and Lumber Co.; E. B. Ashcroft, secretary of the Fibre Shipping Container Association, Chicago; F. C. Gifford, secretary of the National Association of Box Manufacturers, Chicago; Captain G. E. Carlton, assistant chief inspector of the bureau of explosives, New York City; George R. Four interests are represented at this meeting; mailed boxes, wire board boxes, solid fiber board boxes and corrugated fiber boxes. Several boxes of each of these types are being tested for the committee.

RELATES OF CHINESE AT LUNCHEON CLUB

Dr. Wilder, Former U. S. Consul General at Hong Kong, China, Addresses Saturday Luncheon Club. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, Nov. 27.—Dr. Amos P. Wilder, former consul general to Hong Kong, China, was the principal speaker at the Saturday Luncheon Club here today. He spoke of the capacity of the Chinese. The marvel is that from such crude, unprogressive, and unhealthy conditions, can come people physically potential and unabated mentally, said Dr. Wilder.

"A few simple ideals including the use of boiled water and reverence for parents have preserved the nation from decadence. The sons of the ignorant coolies, who are themselves but little removed from beasts of burden and have but two topics of conversation—food and money—these, when given an education and placed in kindly, awakening environments, develop into cultured men of power, entering into the professions and largest activities, apparently heedless of laws of heredity."

Dr. Wilder said that race prejudice should be made obsolete in this twentieth century to go on needlessly offending the Japanese and disregarding the aspiration of future reckoning when China, as Japan, shall have wielded her 400,000,000 population into national unity and consciousness. These people have no pecuniary regard for Americans. In democracy, freedom from affections, local self-government and sons of honor, the Chinese resemble us. It is better to have them as friends. Resistance in the orient tends to break down provincial ideas as to origin.

TESTS SHOW DEFECTS OF THE WOODEN BARREL (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 29.—Recent tests made by the federal government

ment's forest products laboratory here in co-operation with the bureau for the safe transportation of dangerous explosives were to obtain data upon which specifications and changes in the design of wooden barrels used in the transportation of dangerous liquids might be based.

Six groups of eight barrels each were tested. Two barrels of each group were tested in side compression, two in diagonal compression, one each in side and diagonal drop, and two by internal pressure. The tests indicated that the weakest part of the barrels were the heads. The first leak in most of the tests was due either to springing of the head or to the staves at the head, or to both causes.

As a result the laboratory is recommending that a head much thicker than the staves would give materially better results. It estimates that probably the head should be one or two times thicker than the staves. By properly proportioning the thickness of the staves and heads a barrel 50 per cent stronger than the standard barrel was made by the laboratory's engineers from the same amount of material.

THE TRUTH--and the PROOF

"WORDS AND PROMISES ARE ONLY GOOD WHEN BACKED UP BY DEEDS."

This axiom is just as true today as it was when Socrates uttered it hundreds of years ago.

And I attribute my success as a specialist, principally to the fact, that I never attempt to treat cases that are incurable, and second, that I back up my claims by absolute proof.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

They Say I Cure Do You Believe Them?

WRITE TO THEM AND SATISFY YOURSELF. Such Proof can not be manufactured or imitated.

Marquette, 8-22-10. Dear Doctor:— My gaiter which I had had for 18 years is entirely gone after treating with you for five months. I had treated with Dr. and Dr. of Marquette, a year each without any relief.

I am also over my female trouble which I had so long. I would not go back as I was for ten times what it cost me to get well. You will always be my physician in the future. MRS. MARIA PHILLIPS, R. F. D. 2, Marquette, Wis.

Little Suamico, Wis., 1-8-12. Dear Doctor:— After taking seven treatments, I am entirely cured of rupture which I had for six years. I did not lose a moment's time from my work, suffered no pain or inconvenience. Am satisfied in every way. You may refer to me. ARTHUR VIRTUES, R. F. D. No. 1, Little Suamico, Wis.

Seymour, Wis., 12-2-11. Dear Doctor:— I had been a terrible sufferer from Gall Stones when I came to you. I took your treatment for five months. I got a sick spell since I began treatment. Am in good health. Can do as hard a day's work as any woman. Any one suffering as I did should consult you as your charges are reasonable and a sure cure. MRS. X, Seymour, Wis.

I treat all Chronic Diseases of both Men and Women, Rupture, Chronic Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Gout, (without operation) Varicose Veins and Ulcers, Blood and Nervous Troubles. Ladies suffering from disease peculiar to their sex should by all means consult me. I have saved scores from needless operations.

"Have you formed any opinion which would prevent you from rendering a David Arbuckle, Chief Counsel for the Defense.

Gerald Trask, the Man Who Was Slain, fair and impartial verdict?" concluded Gray.

"No, sir; I have not."
"That's all. Any questions, Mr. Arbuckle?" asked the prosecutor, turning to the attorney of the accused.
"Mr. Summers, are you a married man?" asked Arbuckle, rising before the jury box.
"Yes, sir; I am."
"How many years have you been married?"

"Fifteen, next March."
"Have you any family?"
"I have—two boys and a girl."
"The jury is satisfied. Your honor," concluded Arbuckle abruptly.
"Satisfactory to you, Mr. Gray?" asked Judge Dinsmore.
"Yes, sir," replied Gray.

"Swear them," Judge Dinsmore directed the clerk.
"Rise, gentlemen and raise your right hands," the official said.
"As they did so he went on:
"You and each of you do solemnly swear in the presence of the ever living God that you will well and truly try the indictment found by the people of the state of New York against Robert Strickland and give a true verdict rendered therein, according to the evidence, so help you God."

"Properly sworn, the jurymen resumed their seats. The great battle was now on.
"Proceed, Mr. Gray," ordered the judge.

CHAPTER II.

The Case Against Robert Strickland.
ENTLEMEN of the jury," began the prosecutor dramatically, "this case is a very simple one. The facts, as they have appeared from time to time in the newspapers, are no doubt familiar to all of you. I shall outline very briefly the circumstances which we shall put into evidence. Mr. Gerald Trask, as you know, was a prominent banker of this city. He was a distinguished member of the community and occupied important places in the social and financial worlds.
"Among Mr. Trask's acquaintances was Robert Strickland, the defendant.

At the time they became acquainted Strickland was a rather prosperous business man, and he and Mr. Trask met frequently. Some months ago Strickland began to have business troubles. The cause of these difficulties does not concern us. But what does interest us, gentlemen, is that Strickland, becoming more and more involved, found it necessary to go to his friend, Gerald Trask, for financial assistance.

"Mr. Trask responded with his habitual generosity and promptly loaned Strickland $10,000, taking the latter's note as security. But Strickland's business didn't improve, and he decided to migrate to the west. The note was payable on June 22, two days before the murder.

"When the 22d arrived Strickland was in Cleveland, O., making arrangements for himself and family. He returned, however, on the 24th, the night of the murder, sent for Mr. Trask and took up the note. I call your attention to the fact, gentlemen, that Strickland paid the debt in cash. He was a business man. He did not pay it in check or draft, but cash! Ten thousand dollars in cash!

"Mr. Trask had offered to let the loan stand until Strickland was on his feet again, but Strickland wouldn't hear of it. You will understand his eagerness to cancel the debt in a moment, gentlemen. It was because he had evolved a little plan whereby he could wipe out the obligation without it costing him a cent. The scheme was simple enough, gentlemen. He knew that Mr. Trask would have to keep the ten thousand in his house overnight and that he would almost certainly lock it up in the safe in the library. And what is more, gentlemen, he knew the combination to Mr. Trask's safe. Bear in mind that only two people knew the combination to that safe—Mr. Trask and Strickland."

The prosecutor's voice had risen to a pitch marked by tones of bitter denunciation.

"Gray was plainly strong for oratorical effect.
"But Strickland hadn't the nerve to do the job alone, so he called in an assistant. Accordingly he and his accomplice entered Mr. Trask's house a few hours after Strickland had paid over the money. The accomplice went to work on the safe and Strickland stood guard. The burglar succeeded without much difficulty in opening the safe and extracting the $10,000, while Strickland superintended the job. Before they could escape, however, they were interrupted, first by Mrs. Trask and then by her husband. The accomplice made a hasty exit, taking the plunder with him. That was the last that was heard of the accomplice, gentlemen. Who he is or where he went we have been unable to learn." Now Gray was literally shrieking.

"But Mr. Strickland was caught red handed, and believing, evidently, that dead men tell no tales, he shot and killed Mr. Trask in cold blood.
"There you have the story, gentlemen. Mrs. Trask, the widow of the murdered man, will tell it to you in detail. Her testimony will be corroborated by Mr. Glover, Mr. Trask's secretary, thanks to whose bravery the assassin was disarmed and captured, and who gave us material assistance in linking up the chain of evidence against him."

"Not one of the acts is disputed. Strickland, realizing the futility of interposing a defense, has refused."

Arbuckle rose hastily.
"I object to that," he cried to the court.

"Counsel will not interrupt," ordered Dinsmore.

"Strickland, I say," went on Gray, "has refused to make any effort to defend himself. When he was ar-aigned"—

Arbuckle broke in again.
"I object to that."
"Counsel will not interrupt," repeated the judge.

Gray continued:
"When he was arraigned, he pleaded guilty to the indictment of murder in the first degree; perhaps, gentlemen, you ask, if this is so, why are we here? Why is the county put to the expense of the trial? An expense which we taxpayers must meet in the end. Why must you business men be taken from your occupations—be compelled to lose your valuable time?"

"Why is not the penalty allotted to murderers inflicted upon the defendant? And in answer to that I say to you because, gentlemen, the state is jealous of the lives of her citizens. To her the existence of an individual is sacred no matter if he be depraved, degenerate, possessed of criminal instincts, dangerous to society. She will not allow even a self confessed murderer to be put to death until twelve of his fellow citizens sitting in solemn judgment calmly, dispassionately hearing and weighing the facts, have decided that man shall suffer the consequences of his crime. That is why we are here today, gentlemen."

"That is why his honor has assigned such distinguished counsel to defend Strickland, and that is why before we ask you to visit upon this defendant the punishment he merits we shall by the unimpeachable testimony of eye-witnesses convince you of his guilt beyond the peradventure of a doubt.
"Unfortunately his partner in crime has made good his escape. But the greater criminal is in our hands, gentlemen."

"We can make him pay the penalty of the law. I shall take up no more of your time. The facts will speak for themselves."

Gray seated himself, mopping perspiration from his forehead.

Arbuckle calmly and dispassionately opened for the defense.

"Gentlemen of the jury, when his honor assigned me to the defense of this case it seemed to me that the prosecution's theory was untenable," he began. "I knew Mr. Strickland by reputation, and I scouted the burglary hypothesis. This belief strengthened as I became better acquainted with Mr. Strickland. A man of superlative honor and integrity, equipped with a splendid mentality and an excellent reputation, not addicted to bad habits or expensive luxuries, devotedly attached to his wife and child—that is not the sort of man who breaks into his friend's house for the purpose of theft."

"The case seemed to me to be not nearly so clear and simple as my friend, Mr. Gray, makes it out to be. But despite my certainty that there lurked a mystery in this grim affair I could learn nothing that would aid me in substantiating my belief. As my friend has told you, Mr. Strickland has maintained throughout an obstinate, unbreakable silence. In all my years at the bar, gentlemen, I have never encountered any one who has declined so resolutely to yield to persuasion. Threats, entreaties and logic alike have left him indifferent." Arbuckle stepped up and leaned over the jury box.

"At last I reached the conclusion that Strickland was shielding some one, most likely the unknown accomplice cused sprang to his feet. Before his counsel could restrain him the prisoner cried hysterically, with outstretched arms:

"Your honor, I won't have it. I won't have my little girl dragged into this case. I've pleaded guilty. I'm willing to suffer the consequences."

Judge Dinsmore replied calmly:
"Your case is in the hands of your counsel. Be silent and be seated."

"I don't want counsel. I have no defense. Why don't you sentence me? Why—why?" he shrieked. He sat down, sobbing bitterly, as the judge banged his gavel.

Derivation of "Canon."

The word "canon" is Greek for "rule," and is itself derived from "canna," a reed, which was selected by carpenters on account of its straightness. Hence from a measuring rule, it became a figurative rule for measuring and regulating church doctrines.

STUBBORN COUGHS, COLDS AND BRONCHIAL AFFECTIONS RELIEVED

With Best Home-Made Remedy—128 Teaspoonfuls for 25 Cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as Smith's Pharmacy is selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say "Buy a bottle of this new remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Bronchial Affection, and we will return your money; just the same as we do with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give perfect satisfaction, or if it is not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints." In addition to this guarantee, in order that the public might try this remedy without further delay, these druggists announce that they have decided to make an extra inducement and will sell 200 regular 50c size bottles for half price, 25c, to the first 200 persons who sign and present the coupon below at their store. Although they and the proprietor are losing money on every bottle sold at this price, they both have decided to stand this loss, so as to give those who have not yet used this excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it, at their loss, knowing it will be found the best medicine ever used by anyone.

Even though not in need of such a medicine at present, it will pay to obtain a bottle now at half price, as no doubt someone in the family will require it before the winter is over, but you will not have another chance of buying for less than full price. One bottle makes a full pint (128 teaspoonfuls) by simply mixing it at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water, and makes a whole family supply, and as much as would ordinarily cost from $2 to $3 for the same quantity of the ordinary, old-fashioned, ready-made kind of doubtful merit and also without a guarantee, like this remedy. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants and is so pleasant that children like to take it and it can be given them with perfect safety, as it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic, as do most cough mixtures. Absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy on the guarantee of the above well-known, reliable druggist.

If a neighbor or friend would take and pay for half the bottle, the cost of half a pint of this excellent medicine would only cost each about 12 cents.

TWENTY-FIVE CENT COUPON—NO. 3.

Just as the manager was showing some visitors round the factory the dinner bell rang, and the men stopped work and disappeared as if by magic.

Jackson, Miss.—"I am a carpenter, and the gripe left me with a chronic cough, run-down, worn out and weak. I took all kinds of cough syrups without help. I read about Vinol and decided to try it. Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

FARMER LOSES OUT IN TELEGRAPHED OFFER.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Hamburg, Nov. 28.—Though a most unusual legal ruling which in many "matters" is attacked as incorrect, a farmer has been obliged to sell a carload of hay, for two marks (50 cents). He had telegraphed to his wood-bro customer that the price would be 200 marks, and some employee of the telegraph office lost the two ciphers in handling the message. The astonished customer lost no time in accepting the "mark" offer.

When the customer declined to pay 200 the case went into court, and the telegram was produced as evidence that only two marks had been asked for the hay. In vain the farmer pleaded that it was through no fault of his that the ciphers had been "lost in transit." The answer was that he should have spelled out the sum in telegraphing. The supreme court decided that the imperial telegraph office cannot be held responsible for the mistake and that the sale must stand.

KING HORSE KICKS AUTOS OFF THRONE IN CHICAGO MARKET

Windy City Becoming Greatest Center
in World for Allies to Secure War Steeds.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Nov. 29.—Chicago today is the greatest horse market in the world. More than 100,000 horses have sold for $12,000,000 through the local market in the last six months. The European war's demand for artillery and cavalry mounts is responsible for this return of King Horse to the throne from which the automobile spilled him.
Demands from Mexico have added not a little to the business in horses here. At first, agents for the European governments were selective about purchases. Everyone knew horses were being bought but few persons ever saw the agents. It was while the allies' agents were buying incognito that the record sale of 7,001 horses in one week was made in November, 1914. Now the agents buy openly. During the week ending November 6, 5,000 horses were sold. In the same period two years ago 323 horses was considered a good number to sell per week. From 3,000 to 4,000 horses sold weekly these days, is an average.
The horses bring $120 to $240 a head; $250 being paid for artillery horses. Draft horses sell for from $200 to $300 a head; $300 being paid for horses of between 1,550 to 1,750 pounds. The agents are also buying able spy scares at the yards and vigorous measures of protection have been adopted, but there have been no arrests.

$50,000 MONUMENT TO EDGAR ALLAN POE

Memorial Planned by Virginia Pearson to be Erected in New York City Instead of Baltimore.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Nov. 27.—Edgar Allan Poe, the great writer is to have a fitting memorial erected to his memory in New York City. The plans of Virginia Pearson, who recently escorted the stage to star in photographs, do not go amiss. For years an ardent admirer of Poe and his works, Miss Pearson has long harbored the idea of erecting in a movement to give to this noted author a suitable monument and when it was suggested by several prominent men that she herself inaugurate a fund to this end, she immediately designed the monument by depositing her check for $250.00 in the Commercial Trust company of New York City to the credit of the Edgar Allan Poe Memorial Fund. The addition of this fund has written to the editors of the foremost publications of the country inviting them to serve on a committee for the election of the fund and subsequent erection of the monument. Many have already accepted and already has been the response from well known men and women offering their support that it is believed that the $50,000 which it is planned to secure for the monument, will be available in a very short time.
Mayor Preston of Baltimore, in which city the remains of Poe are buried, recently wrote to Miss Pearson an encouraging communication in which he suggested that the monument be erected in Baltimore. After investigation Miss Pearson decided New York to be the logical city for its erection and took up the matter with Cabot Ward, Commissioner of Parks of New York City who promised his assistance in securing a fitting site for the monument.
In speaking of her plans Miss Pearson said today: "It is a peculiar inconsistency that while many monuments are erected in the name of military and naval heroes no one has yet deemed worthy of this honor the man who did so much for the truly civilizing cause of our national literature. It seems a shame that America should have so long failed to honor one of her greatest authors by erecting a monument worthy of his memory. It has been my ambition for some years to remedy this fault, and I sincerely trust that I may be enabled to carry out my plan to give to New York a really artistic statue of Poe."

SEES FEUDAL TIMES COMING BACK AGAIN

C. W. Holman, Gives Startling Address at Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Ill., Nov. 29.—"The gradual tendency of this country is toward land lord ownership of land," Charles W. Holman, secretary, today told the third national conference on marketing and farm credits.
The condition is threatening to become almost as complicated as during feudal times, Holman continued. Men live in luxury, in cities, with money made with the labor of tenants. The condition is leading this country to an unfortunate economic condition—almost as unfortunate as the condition from which Ireland was just pulled.
Ireland, he said, has been led from the oppression of his land lords. England passed a law permitting the British government to buy lands from the land lords when they resold the land to Irish farmers under terms the farmers could bear. A new system of agriculture and marketing has further aided Ireland to become prosperous, he said.
More than 700 delegates representing thirty-eight states, were in attendance at the second day's session today. The conference will end Thursday evening.
Standardization products as to quality and size and type of products is necessary as an accurate basis of price quotations. Charles J. Brand, chief of the bureau of markets of the department of agriculture, presided at the conference today. He said accuracy of standards in selling products means a smaller margin between the price paid by the customer and the price paid by the producer. Poor grades and ungraded products are ruinous to the whole market, he maintained. Failure to standardize packages, he said, afforded opportunity for dishonesty. That standardization of containers is a proper subject for federal legislation, was his contention.
W. G. Scholtz, director of the Idaho department of markets, told the conference why he created a department of markets. That the idea of state assistance in farm marketing has come to stay was his stated belief. He detailed how the Idaho law works. First it affords a state employment bureau for farmers wanting men and men wanting jobs. They get together without expense to either. The bureau's second function is to investigate promoters' circulars and prevent their representations. The third function of the bureau, marketing farm products, is more gigantic in its scope, and slower to get under way, he said.

Frank L. McVey, chairman of the conference, in welcoming the delegates last night declared co-operative marketing forecasts, agricultural prosperity, Millard R. Meyers, editor of the American Co-operative Journal, said farmers co-operative markets had been universally successful, and their failures not common.

KIRKWALL, OBSCURE SCOTCH TOWN, NOW IN LIMELIGHT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Nov. 29.—Kirkwall, where many of the American merchant ships have been taken for examination by the British patrol ships, may be said to have made a sudden leap into fame as far as the average Londoner is concerned—out of the pages of the latest American note.
Probably few Londoners more than suspected the existence of Kirkwall until they read about it in the American note. It is a rather obscure Scotch town, although capital of the island county of Orkney, and its population is less than four thousand. But it has a magnificent harbor, in which the 20 or so capture ships might all ride safely at anchor at the same time. But when it is remembered that Kirkwall is located twenty-six miles north of John O'Groats, which is the extreme northern point of Scotland, it is seen how far the harbor is from the ordinary purpose of trade.
The American crews could find no better harbor in which to spend their forced leisure nor better sight-seeing of the antiquarian order. For Kirkwall is surrounded by the past—cathedral, palace and castle are all of the middle ages, and nearby are great Stonehenge circles of an even remoter era. Nowhere are the ancient remains better preserved. Reminders of Scandinavian rule are found in the place-names. Kirkwall itself is the corruption of Kirkjufargr, the "Bay of the Church."

TUMULTY ANSWERS PROTEST ON MEXICO

Administration Makes Reply to Criticism of Recognition of Carranza Government.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The administration's reply to those who criticize the recognition of the Carranza government in Mexico because of charges of outrages upon priests and nuns of the Catholic church was made public here tonight in a letter by Secretary Tumulty to Dr. James J. McGuire of Trenton, N. J., who recently wrote to the White House asking for an explanation of what he characterized as "widespread criticism." Secretary Tumulty advised Dr. McGuire that the files of the State Department failed to disclose any official record of a single proven case of outrages upon nuns, and he included in his letter a statement by the Catholic vicar general at Mexico City, which while disclosing the shooting of priests, and the expulsion and imprisonment of others, declared there had been no violations of nuns in that district.
Secretary Tumulty said in all ways the horrors of the conflict have been kept alive by those on the losing side, and it should be the duty of all citizens of both the United States and Mexico to contribute in every manner to the early rehabilitation of the nation so long torn by civil strife and to avoid keeping open the wounds.
"Counsel and sympathy are needful and would be merited now, because they would be of wonderful efficacy in uniting the people of Mexico in the work of reconstruction," wrote Mr. Tumulty. "Efforts to arouse rancorous feelings among them will have the effect of opening anew the wounds which should be healed, and of creating in every corner to which the poor people as long as their minds are kept inflamed against their brethren." The secretary also called attention to the recognition of President Juarez by the Buchanan administration following "the bloodiest of all civil wars ever waged in Mexico," marked by "all the bitterness and cruelties of a religious war."
Emphasis was laid on the recognition of Carranza by the Latin American countries which joined in the Pan American peace conferences. All of these Latin American countries, Mr. Tumulty pointed out, were Catholic nations.
Finally, a statement was reproduced which was given the State Department by Emilio Arredondo, the Washington representative of General Carranza, last October, pledging the Carranza government to respect every body's "life, property, and religious beliefs."
Secretary Tumulty included in his message, a letter written by former Secretary Bryan last March to Rev. Francis C. Kelley of Chicago, giving in detail various steps taken by the United States government during the progress of the revolution in Mexico to protect the representatives of all religious organizations in Mexico. It previously has been published.

ABOUT 300,000 BABIES DIE BEFORE ONE YEAR

The Census Bureau estimates that 300,000 babies died in this country last year before the age of one year, and it is stated that one-half of these deaths were needless if all mothers were strong and infants were breast-fed. Expectant mothers should strive to increase their strength with the strengthening fats in Scott's Emulsion which improves the blood, suppresses nervousness, aids the quality of milk, and feeds the very life cells.
Physicians prescribe Scott's Emulsion; it is doubly important during nursing. No alcohol. Every druggist has it. Insist on Scott's the white-fish medicine. No advanced prices.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You—Drink Lots of Water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.
The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.
Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.
